What are cookies?

As is common practice with almost all professional websites, this site uses cookies. Cookies are tiny files that are downloaded to your computer, to improve your experience. This document describes what information is gathered by cookies, how we use the information, and why we sometimes need to store these cookies. We will also share how you can prevent these cookies from being stored.

For more general information on cookies, see this Wikipedia article on HTTP cookies.

How we use cookies

We use cookies for a variety of reasons, as detailed below. In most cases there are no industry standard options for disabling cookies without completely disabling the functionality and features they add to this site. It is recommended that you leave on all cookies if you are not sure whether you need them or not, in case they are linked to a service that you use.

Disabling cookies

You can prevent the setting of cookies by adjusting the settings on your browser (see your browser Help for how to do this). Be aware that disabling cookies will affect the functionality of this site and many other websites that you visit. Disabling cookies will usually result in disabling certain functionality and features of websites. Therefore, it is recommended that you do not disable cookies.

The cookies we set

- Log in-related cookies

  We use cookies when you are logged in so that we can remember this fact. This prevents you from having to log in every single time you visit a new page. These cookies are typically removed or cleared when you log out to ensure that you can only access restricted features and areas when logged in.

Third party cookies

In some special cases we also use cookies provided by trusted third parties. The following section explains which third party cookies you might encounter through this site.

- This site uses Google Analytics which is one of the most widespread and trusted analytics solution on the web for helping us to understand how you use the site and ways that we can improve your experience. These cookies may track things such as how long you spend on the site and the pages that you visit so we can continue to produce engaging content. No personally identifiable information is associated with these cookies.

For more information on Google Analytics cookies, see the official Google Analytics page.
